Mysuru should remain as cleanest and greenest city

Dr. Veerendra Heggade launches 25,000 sapling planting programme

Dharmasthala Dharmadhikari Dr. D. Veerendra Heggade watering a sapling to launch the tree planting drive at KSOU premises this morning as MLA G.T. Devegowda, MLC C.N. Manjegowda, MUDA Chairman H.V. Rajeev, Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji, MP Pratap Simha, District Minister S.T. Somashekar, MLA L. Nagendra, BJP Mysuru District (Rural) President Mangala Somashekar and others look on.

Mysuru, July 13 (PM&DM)- Asserting that Mysuru, which had earned the Cleanest City tag previously, should remain as the Cleanest and Greenest City of the country, Dharmasthala Dharmadhikari Dr. D. Veerendra Heggade lauded MUDA for its initiatives on expanding the green cover in Mysuru.

He was speaking after launching 'Vana Siri,' a massive afforestation drive aimed at planting 25,000 saplings, as part of the programme organised jointly by MUDA, Sri Kshetra Dharmasthala Rural Development Project B.C. Trust and H.V. Rajeev Sneha Balaga, at KSOU Convocation Bhavan in Muktagangothri campus here this morning.

Complimenting MUDA Chairman H.V. Rajeev for promoting greenery in and around Mysuru, Dr. Heggade opined that one should see the almighty in nature and environment.

"Besides planting of saplings, it is important to nurture them till they grow. We should work towards ensuring that we leave a green world to our future generations. Some of Australia's forests are so dense that sunrays do not fall on earth," he said.

Continuing, Dr. Heggade said that while it is vital to plant trees, it is also equally important that healthy and fully grown trees are not cut. Referring to increasing man-animal conflict, he observed that wildlife would not have ventured into villages had they got food in their own forest habitats. In this backdrop, the Dharmasthala Trust is planning to launch massive tree planting drives in forest areas as well, he said adding that the Trust has also rejuvenated nearly 500 lakes and other water bodies in North Karnataka in the past couple of years.

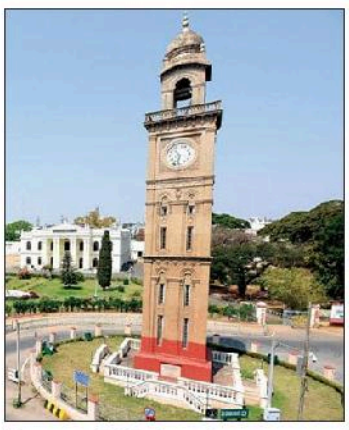
Restoration of Silver Jubilee Clock Tower: MCC sanctions Rs. 34 lakh

Mysuru, July 13 (RK&KS)- The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has sanctioned Rs. 34 lakh for the restoration of the Silver Jubilee Clock Tower located opposite the Town Hall in the heart of the city. The works will be taken up by the Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage soon.

In-charge Mayor Sunanda Palanetra said that the clock tower required immediate attention, but the heritage experts, who had inspected the 95-year-old structure, had barred the MCC from taking up repair works. "The restoration work should be carried out under the guidance of heritage experts from the Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage," she added.

Sunanda Palanetra said that she also wanted to take up the developments of the surroundings of the Silver Jubilee Clock



Tower, which has been named as Mahaveer Circle but still called as Clock Tower Circle.

Stating that she wanted to take up development of the Circle at a cost of Rs. 1 crore as it was right in front of Mysore Palace and wanted to complete it before Dasara festivities, she regretted that it cannot be taken up.

MCC Commissioner G. Lakshmikantha Reddy, told Star of Mysore said that the MCC has given administrative approval for the Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage to take up the restoration works.

Technical staff of the Department will take up the works soon and the MCC will release the amount stage by stage, the MCC Chief added.

It may be recalled that the Silver Jubilee Clock Tower also known as Dodda Gadiyara was installed by Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar in 1927 after completing 25 years of his rule.

In 2020, members of the District Heritage Expert Committee had visited the heritage structure and collected samples of masonry material, lime mortar and a few iron pieces that had been rusted and sent to the Regional Conservation Laboratory (RCL), branch of National Research Laboratory for Conservation of Cultural Property for tests.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Guru Purnima is a festival traditionally observed to honour one's preceptor, spiritual guru in particular, from whom the disciple has received mantra-initiation. According to the Hindu calendar, it is observed on Purnima, full moon day, in the month of Ashadh, June-July. On this day, the disciple remembers his guru with deep feelings of devotion and resolves to follow the path shown by him with utmost tenacity. Though there have been countless sages and saints who rose to great spiritual heights, yet it is important to distinguish them from a sadguru, a perfect master, who has attained the exalted state of Self-realisation — oneness with the Supreme Being.

The first syllable, 'gu', in the word 'guru' represents maya, the power that deludes, which poses as a big impediment to the seeker's effort to attain God-realisation. The second syllable, 'ru', represents the Supreme Light of Consciousness. The word 'guru' thus indicates the rise of the sun in the form of knowledge of the Self. When the grace of a sadguru descends upon the disciple, the dark clouds of maya get dispersed and the Light of Pure Consciousness shines forth in all its glory.

According to yog scriptures, the greatest quality of a sadguru is his power and authority to awaken the dormant Kundalini within the seeker. The sadguru thus leads the seeker from darkness to light, from ignorance to knowledge, and elevates him to the level of a siddha, a perfect being. We may conclude with Verse 33 of Sri Guru Gita which says: "Salutations to the sadguru who is Shiv, the first cause of the universe, the bridge to cross the ocean of worldliness, the source of all knowledge." — Anup Taneja in The Times of India

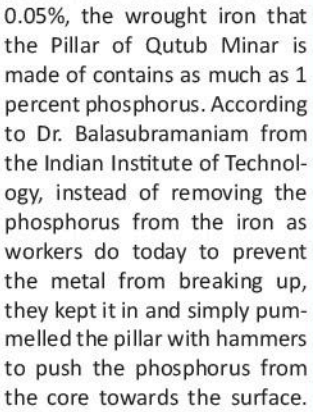
1,600-year-old iron pillar that refuses to rust



New Delhi: A Mosque complex in New Delhi is home to an ancient wonder of metal work – a 1,600-year-old iron pillar - that is exceptionally resistant to rust.

The Iron Pillar of Qutub Minar, as this ancient monument is sometimes referred to, measures 7.21-meters-tall, has a diameter of 41 centimeters and weighs about 6 tons. Even though it is exposed to vagaries of nature, the iron pillar shows no sign of rusting. For decades, scientists and metal workers from all over the world speculated about the properties of this unusual marvel and it wasn't until 2003 that the mystery was finally cracked.

While modern iron has a phosphorus content of under 0.05%, the wrought iron that the Pillar of Qutub Minar is made of contains as much as 1 percent phosphorus. According to Dr. Balasubramaniam from the Indian Institute of Technology, instead of removing the phosphorus from the iron as workers do today to prevent the metal from breaking up, they kept it in and simply pummelled the pillar with hammers to push the phosphorus from the core towards the surface. This kept the iron strong and also led to the formation of the misawite barrier.

Gas pipeline installation

Unknown persons

visiting door-to-door?

Sir,

A month back, we had some persons who were on the prowl knocking on each house asking to register for gas pipeline connection.

There has been no official notification from the Government on which company has been given the authorisation to register for this service.

Of late, some teenage looking boys have come asking if gas lines are to be laid inside the compound till kitchen for the proposed gas pipeline. These persons do not have any uniform nor look professional. Upon asking for identity, they say they can produce but just move on to the next house. This type of activities give rise to suspicion and do not augur well for residents.

Any company which is awarded this service should have proper uniformed personnel for installation displaying company identity and proper officers who interact with residents.

Concerned authorities should give proper press notice on this proposed gas connection procedures so that residents may take suitable decision.

Apollo BGS Hospital successfully treats 95-year-old Brain Stroke patient

Mysuru, July 13- In a recent development, the Neurologists at Apollo BGS Hospital, Mysuru, successfully treated a 95-year-old Brain Stroke patient through Mechanical Thrombectomy.

The lady, who was healthy and functionally independent, suffered from sudden onset of weakness in the right side of the body and difficulty in speech. As an early witness to the course of events, the patient's son realised that his mother may have had a stroke and brought her immediately to Apollo BGS Hospital.

Once in the hospital, the emergency stroke code was activated. Emergency brain scans revealed blockage of the main artery that supplies blood to the left side of the brain. Doctors at Apollo BGS Hospital counselled the attenders regarding the need to open up the vessel immediately to prevent permanent damage to the brain.

The scan also revealed that the patient had suffered a silent, undetected stroke a few days ago, preventing the doctors from giving an intravenous injection to dissolve the clot.

She underwent Mechanical Thrombectomy in which the clot within the blood vessel was removed through a small hole in the groin artery. To the joy and relief of doctors and attenders, she became normal within a few hours of the procedure. She could communicate as before and walk independently in two days.

The treatment for ischaemic stroke (blockage of a blood vessel) is limited by time — up to 4.5 hours in cases where the clot can be dissolved using intravenous medicine (tissue plasminogen activator - rTPA) or up to 6 hours in cases where the clot can be manually extracted out through endovascular route.

Mechanical Thrombectomy is indicated explicitly in stroke due to blockage of larger vessels. The damage to the brain is irreversible, and chances of recovery are high if the treatment is initiated early and blood supply to the brain is restored. Procedures with good outcomes are possible when expertise and technological advancements meet under a single roof.

Dr. Vinay Hegde, Neuro-interventional Radiologist, Apollo BGS Hospital, said, "In elderly, Mechanical Thrombectomy procedure may be complicated due to tortuous nature of vessels and other comorbidities. Recent guidelines have been expanded to include elderly patients (above 80 years) to make them disability-free. This is the oldest patient treated at Apollo BGS Hospital, Mysuru."

Dr. Aumir Moin, Senior Consultant Neurologist, said "Time is brain, is suitable for all ages. IV Thrombolysis and Mechanical Thrombectomy have good results in older adults also. In this case, the credit goes to the patient attender for taking a quick decision despite her advanced age; Because quality of life matters, especially in older adults."

Free ambulance service

Apollo BGS Hospital has introduced free ambulance service in and around Mysuru to benefit people in case of medical emergencies like heart attacks. A stroke attack too calls for immediate medical attention, says N. G. Bharateesha Reddy, Vice-President & Unit Head, Apollo BGS Hospitals, Mysuru.

The pathetic condition of Mini Vidhana Soudha

Stinking toilets, non-functional lift, defunct Sakala kiosk, plants growing on terrace, seeping walls, garbage heaps everywhere

Mysuru, July 13 (GA&KS)- Mini Vidhana Soudha, located in Nazarbad and built on a two acre plot at a cost of Rs. 8.2 crore, is crying for attention due to lack of maintenance. Despite several complaints from the public about the pathetic condition of the building with most of the facilities such as lift, drinking water, toilets being defunct since many months and even publishing the same in newspapers, the condition has remained the same with the public cursing the authorities concerned whenever they come to the building to get their works done.

The Mini Vidhana Soudha building at Nazarbad which houses various Government Departments.

Plants grown on the terrace of the building which could lead to seepage of rain water.

Broken glass and fused tube lights which needs to be removed. Picture right shows the defunct Sakala kiosk.

The Mini Vidhana Soudha, which houses the Taluk Office, Sub Registrar's Office, Taluk Panchayat Office, Assistant Director of Land Records Office, Assistant Agriculture Director's Office, Canara Bank branch and various other Department offices was inaugurated in 2013 to avoid public from running from one Department to another to get their works done. Though it is not even a decade since its inauguration, the place is dogging with several problems.

Lift defunct since a year

Mini Vidhana Soudha has two floors and an elevator (lift) was installed, which helped people with disabilities, pregnant women and senior citizens reach the first and second floors.

But the lift has stopped working since a year and none of the officials concerned have bothered to get it repaired. With the lift not functioning, persons with disabilities, pregnant women and senior citizens are finding it very difficult to climb the multi-steps stairs to reach the offices housed on the 1st and 2nd floor of the building, cursing the concerned officials and authorities for their negligent attitude.

Toilets locked by staff for personal use

Though there are toilets in every floor, a majority of them are stinking due to non-maintenance and regular cleaning. "A few clean toilets are locked by the staff for their personal use and have kept the keys with them thus forcing the public to use the stinking toilets and risking themselves of catching infections," public said.

Defunct Sakala kiosk

A Sakala kiosk, installed by the Department of Information and Public Relations in the building for the public to know about the status of their applications has now become a display item as it has become defunct & useless.

Though many use to seek information about the status of their applications earlier, they are now roaming from one Department to another Department to get the information they needed.

Plants, bushes grown on terrace, walls

With the above problems being faced inside the building, if one goes to the terrace, they can see plants and small bushes growing on the terrace and also on the walls.

Concrete flooring has come off in many places and rain water is seeping inside the walls making it weak. Cracks have developed on the walls and rain water seeping from the terrace may leak from the cracks any time.

The building lacks cleanliness as garbage heaps and waste materials such as fused bulbs and tube lights and glass pieces are found everywhere.

The cellar of the building where vehicles are parked is no different. One can find dust covered Department vehicles lying there. The funny part is no one knows to which Department these vehicles belong to. Meanwhile, members of the public said that the Mini Vidhana Soudha, which has been built with taxpayers' money, has gone for a waste and if the building in not maintained regularly, it may meet the fate of the Lansdowne Building.

Nalwadi, Sir MV statues at KRS 80% done

Museums with rare photos of Kannambadi village to add sheen to statue concept

Mysuru, July 13 (RK&BCT)- Over 80 percent of life-like and life-size statues of Rajarshi Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) Dam's Chief Founder-Patron and Sir M. Visvesvaraya (Sir MV), Wadiyar's Dewan and Chief Engineer who built the dam, has been completed and will be ready for public-viewing in two or three months.

The white marble statues will be installed at the Southern Gate of the dam and works are in progress to complete the Mantapas — built on elevated platforms near the entrance to the reservoir — that will house the statues. The estimated cost of the statues is Rs. 8.5 crore and the tender of Rs. 9.71 crore has been finalised.

Both the statues will be housed inside two Mantapas and are 22x22 metres in length and width (22.387 metres X 22.387 metres). The statues have a height of 9 feet and will stand on 2 feet pedestals.

The Mantapas have been built with Doddaballapur stones and the statues are of white marble stone like the statues at Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, Chamaraja Wadiyar and Jayachamaraja Wadiyar Circles in the heart of Mysuru city.

A rare museum below statues

Notably, below the ornate Mantapas, two rooms have been built with the same stone with which the Mantapas have been built and the rooms will house a museum that will feature rare photos of Kannambadi village before the construction of the dam. The dam in the local language is still called Kannambadi Katte.

Along with the photos of the village, the museum will comprise rare photos of Nalwadi, the royal family, Sir MV, construction scenes of the dam and artefacts and royal insignias and related paraphernalia associated with the dam, a technical marvel that has stood the test of time.

The museum will also depict the KRS Dam which holds such an important place in South India as it is the lifeline. Its history, the idea behind it and the brain that built the mammoth structure and also the people who sacrificed their happiness to fund the dam construction will be portrayed.

It was Nalwadi who mortgaged the Mysore royal family's ornaments to complete the construction of the dam. Sir MV was the Engineer-Extraordinaire behind the massive structure, construction of which began in November 1911 and completed in 1931-32.

Cauvery Neeravari Nigam Limited (CNNL) Managing Director Shankaregowda told Star of Mysore that the works had been delayed due to the COVID pandemic as skilled labour was in short supply. "Also, there was opposition from certain quarters to the installation of Sir MV's statue there. We have got a clear-cut direction from the State Government to go ahead with the project to honour Nalwadi and Sir MV," he said.

Jaipur sculpture work

When asked about the statue per se, Shankaregowda said that the project contractor H.S. Ramesh had handed over the white marble statue carving project to Jaipur-based sculptors in Rajasthan. "The statue of the Nalwadi is almost ready and required finishing touches while the works on Sir MV's statue are pending and will be ready soon. They will be open for public viewing in two or three months," he said.

The statue project is being implemented in consultation with the erstwhile Mysore royal family and has the approval of Pramoda Devi Wadiyar. "Valuable inputs and suggestions were provided by Pramoda Devi Wadiyar and the artisans and project engineers got access to rare photos to design the statues of Nalwadi and Sir MV. In addition, the museum concept has been planned well and will be a treasure-trove of knowledge to those who want to learn more about the dam," Shankaregowda added.

Painful Periods and Infertility

Gauri who was 23 years had been trying for pregnancy for 3 years. She had regular periods but had severe pain during periods. Ultrasound scan showed large blood-filled cysts, which are called as Chocolate Cysts in both the ovaries. She underwent keyhole procedure where the cyst was drained and the endometriosis was destroyed to the extent possible. She was advised to undergo an IVF procedure for which the treatment was started. She produced four eggs, which were fertilized by her husband's sperm. Out of these two embryos were formed which was put back into the uterine cavity. The patient got pregnant and delivered a healthy baby.

Pain during periods is very common and is called as Dysmenorrhoea or simply as menstrual pain. Menstrual pain can be sharp, dull or shooting pain. They also cause nausea and if very severe may force the patient to take leave from work. When the pain is related to an underlying disease or disorder, it is called as secondary dysmenorrhoea. The common causes of secondary dysmenorrhoea* are endometriosis*, uterine fibroids and sexually transmitted diseases. The common symptoms of endometriosis are pelvic pain and infertility. Some women experience pain during sexual intercourse, bowel movements or urination. Endometriosis can be one of the reasons for infertility in otherwise healthy couple.

In vitro fertilization (IVF) procedures are effective in improving fertility for some women with endometriosis. IVF makes it possible to combine sperm and eggs in a laboratory and then place the resulting embryos into the woman's uterus. Pregnancy rates with IVF procedure following certain altered protocols of treatment can reach up to 65%. Mysuru: A Look at its Past...

By Gouri Satya, Sr. Journalist

An Agrahara by a Palace Astrologer

OLD-WORLD CHARM: An old printing press can be found here at Nala Beedi in Kashipathy Agrahara. Kashipathy Agrahara covers a wide area from Chamaraja Double Road to Nala Beedi and Renuka Temple Street.

Kashipathy Agrahara in K.R. Mohalla is the largest Agrahara built in Mysuru. While the Agraharas were built by the Maharajas, their queens and others were one stretch of road with about 21 houses, Kashipathy Agrahara is spread out into a block of a few streets covering an extensive area from the Chamaraja Double Road to Nala Beedi and Renuka Temple Street.

The Agrahara is named after Kashipathy Sastry, who built it for himself, his relatives and a few Brahmin priests. It comprised 62 houses and the numbers have increased now. The houses were spacious with open places in front of each house having trees like coconut and flowering trees. The people who lived there were scholars and musicians.

Kashipathy Sastry was a learned scholar and renowned astrologer of the Palace. He also traded in diamonds, it is believed. Dealing in diamonds had made him rich. He had accumulated such huge wealth that the chains of the swing (Uyyale) in his house were of gold, it is said. His period is stated to be around 1870 when Maharaja Chamaraja Wadiyar was reigning.

Kashipathy Sastry was the son of Pinnappa Sastry and the family hailed from Kanchi. They lived at Sevilimedu village, about 5 km away from the famous temple town of Kanchipuram in Tamil Nadu. Built by the Cholas, the Lakshminarasimhaswamy Temple is believed to be around 1200 years old.

Some of his descendants visit the temple regularly to worship their home deity, Lakshminarasimha, whose name has been given to many among the descendants. Coming to know of his scholarship, the then Sringeri Swamiji suggested Maharaja Chamaraja Wadiyar to invite Kashipathy Sastry to Mysuru.

Accordingly, the Maharaja invited him to Mysuru and offered him all facilities. He provided him with one of the ten houses built near the Krishnaswamy Temple within the Palace fort. Sastry lived there enjoying the patronage of the Maharaja.

THEN AND NOW: Sri Vidyadayini Girls High School. Now the board of the school is missing. These are buildings behind the Kashipathy Agrahara to where it extended.

Kashipathy Sastry was the youngest among three brothers. The eldest was a Vedic scholar and the second one was a musician. Being a reputed astrologer and expert in diamonds, Kashipathy Sastry developed a close association with Chamaraja Wadiyar and became his adviser.

The Maharaja, it is said, used to consult Kashipathy Sastry on several issues and they were seen discussing till late hours. His association was so close he could dine with the Maharaja, a privilege that was enjoyed only by the members of the royal family. He had also the privilege of going to the Palace in his horse-driven coach.

In appreciation of his scholarship, the Maharaja had gifted Kashipathy Sastry two or three Jodi gramas (two villages) and a piece of land at the foot of Chamundi Hill. Kashipathy Sastry had also fertile irrigated lands and mango gardens.

NEEDS A COAT OF PAINT: The old signboard that indicates the name Kashipathy Agrahara. It takes a lot of effort to read the text as it is not painted. This road is a combination of residential and commercial structures.

Kashipathy Laya

When plague epidemic spread within the Palace Fort and his uncle became a victim, Kashipathy Sastry decided to move out. He bought a vast tract of land belonging to Bakshi Basappaji near the Fort, where he built a huge house that opened at one end of the present Chamaraja Double Road, earlier called Chamaraja Road, and closed at the other end of the road leading to Thyagaraja Road.

Besides his palatial house, he built a Mantapa and 62 houses, all enclosed within a wall. The houses were given to his relatives and 2-3 Telugu Brahmins who were associated with Sastry on nominal rent. It was called Kashipathy Laya.

In this Agrahara, we can see houses spread within small crossroads. The wall around them no longer exists. His descendants lived there for a long time, even after their forefather's death. Among them was the astrologer's eldest son, Ashwathanarayana Sastry. Even now, one or two families live there.

Kashipathy Sastry, it is believed, had sold a portion of the land lying vacant in his sprawling Agrahara to the relatives of Tipu Sultan. One Ali Khan had taken the land promising to give Jodi gramas (two villages) to Sastry, a promise which was not fulfilled. Even today, Muslim families live close to the Kashipathy Agrahara on Rahmania Street and around. There was also a palace, which was popularly known as 'Tipu's Palace' facing the Chamaraja Double Road, a place up to which the Agrahara extended originally.

BUILT FOR OWN NEEDS: The 1st Road of this old Agrahara named after Kashipathy Sastry, who built it for himself, his relatives and a few Brahmin priests. Picture right shows many residents have demolished their old houses and have constructed new ones, reflecting the necessities of families.

Being a rich man (Sowcar), Kashipathy Sastry was lending money to scholars who approached him at the time of their needs and many of them were prominent personalities like Kunigala Ramasastry, a highly respected scholarly person of Sastry's period. It is said, even the Maharaja had borrowed money from Kashipathy Sastry.

Ramothsava celebrations in Mysuru way back in 1885

Kashipathy Sastry had a good collection of books, many of which related to music as music ran in the family's blood. His brother Narasimha Sastry's son, Sundara Sastry (1855-1935), was both an accomplished Veena Vidwan of the traditional Mysuru style and a vocalist of repute. He was the first music teacher in Maharani's High School and also the senior Asthana Vidwan in the court of Krishnaraja Wadiyar IV. He was a great devotee of Lord Rama having received Sri Ramataraka Mantropadesha. He launched Ramothsava celebrations and music performances for the first time in Mysuru in his house on the Geetha Road in Chamarajapuram in about 1885 and conducted with religious regularity every year. Reputed musicians offered music seva during the celebrations.

After Sundara Sastry breathed his last in 1935, the tradition of organising Ramothsava and music performances was continued by his children and his close associate Subrahmanya Sastry. In memory of the revered musician, who was also a Vaggeyakara, the Sundara Rama Mandira, now called Aralikatte Rama Mandira, adjacent to which stands a 'Peepul' tree, in Chamarajapuram, was built and Ramothsava music performances were conducted every year till recently in its premises.

A FOND MEMORY OF A MUSICIAN: In memory of Sundara Sastry, the Sundara Rama Mandira, now called Aralikatte Rama Mandira. Picture right shows a 'Peepul' tree adjacent to Aralikatte Rama Mandira where Ramothsava music performances were conducted every year till recently. Now it is the place to spend time chatting with friends.

Sundara Sastry led a saintly life like Saint Tyagaraja, singing songs in praise of Lord Rama, including his compositions in Kannada, Sanskrit and Telugu numbering over 40. His descendant, Karthik Lakshminarayana, who is also a musician, is making efforts to trace the compositions composed by Sundara Sastry.

Like Sundara Sastry's compositions, it is not known what happened to the wealth Kashipathy Sastry had accumulated. Only one or two small heirlooms, like a silver Ganesha figure and a Sri Chakra Yantra, are with his descendants, who worship it daily.

HAIL THE LORD: Ganesha which was being worshipped by Sastry.

An inscription at Vijayapura

There is mention of a Kashipathy Sastry in an inscription belonging to the 19th century. The inscription of October 13, 1855, found at Vijayapura in T. Narasipur taluk mentions one Kashipathy Subba Sastry and says he belongs to Koundinyasa Gothra of Apasthambha Sutra Yajushakadhyayi.

The Kannada inscription recorded in the Epigraphia Carnatica Vol. 5, Page number 549, belongs to the period of Krishnaraja Wadiyar III. It says when Krishnaraja Wadiyar was on the throne at Mahisuru Nagara and adds the name of Kashipathy Subba Sastry. It is not known whether this Subba Sastry was related to Kashipathy Sastry of the Kashipathy Agrahara fame.

WORD OF THE DAY

Yankee

Pronunciation: YANG-kee.
Meaning: Yankee can refer broadly to anyone born or living in U.S., or more narrowly only to those in northern U.S., or even more narrowly, only to those in the states of New England.
Origin: We don't know the origin of Yankee but we do know that it began as an insult. British General James Wolfe used the term in a 1758 letter to express his low opinion of the New England troops assigned to him, and from around the same time period there is a report of British troops using Yankee as a term of abuse for the citizens of Boston. In 1775, however, after the battles of Lexington and Concord showed that colonials could stand up to British regulars, Yankee was proudly adopted by colonials as a self-descriptor in defiance of pejorative use. Both derisive and respectable uses have existed ever since.
Example: "We're pretty good here in Vermont about being mindful about recycling. It is in our genes. Depression-era residents used to keep everything, from small jars for nails, to the nails themselves after they were retrieved from old boards. That Yankee ingenuity absolutely comes from the resourcefulness and ability not to waste anything."

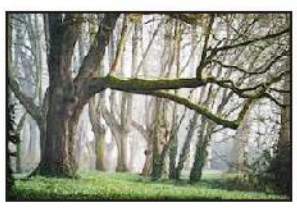
THE ODD WORD

Yair

Tidal enclosure for catching fish.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

You can't see the wood for the trees



Meaning: By focussing on detail you lose perspective and miss what is important.
Origin: This proverbial saying is first found in Sir Thomas More's Confutacion of Tyndals Answere, 1533, in which More argued the case against English cleric Robert Barnes, who he considered to be a heretic: [Original Middle English text] And as he myght tell vs, that of Poules chyrch we may well se the stones, but we can not se the chyrce. And then we may well tell hym agayne, that he cannot se the wood for the trees. [Modern translation] He might tell us that of Paul's Church we may well see the stones, but we cannot see the church. And then we may well tell him again that he cannot see the wood for the trees. John Heywood included the saying in his 1546 glossary A Dialogue conteinyng the nomber in effect of all the Prouerbes in the Englishe tongue:
An olde saied sawe, itche and ease, can no man please.
Plentie is no deyntie [dainty]. ye see not your owne ease.
I see, ye can not see the wood for trees.
Heywood's meaning is that, by having so many good things, people can miss the fact that life as a whole is good.
